

Assistant/Associate Professors of Higher Education

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

Institute of Higher Education

The Institute of Higher Education at the University of Georgia seeks two tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professors of Higher Education. The appointments will begin in August 2018. For detailed information on both open positions, visit our web site at <http://ihe.uga.edu>.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Higher Education (Theory and Qualitative Methods)

The Institute of Higher Education at the University of Georgia seeks a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor of Higher Education with expertise in social, organizational, or political theory and in qualitative research methods. The candidate will be expected to teach in the Institute's academic programs, advise students, and conduct independent research. At a minimum applicants must have completed a doctorate in higher education or a related social-science field. Appointment at the associate level requires prior or current faculty status in a tenured or tenure-track line position and ability to meet the criteria for appointment at the associate level set by the University of Georgia. Appointment at the assistant or associate level will be guided by the candidate's prior experience and scholarly qualifications and determined by UGA's criteria for faculty appointment, promotion and tenure. Our preference is for candidates with in-depth preparation in qualitative research methodologies; an established program of scholarly research on postsecondary education; and a minimum of three years of successful teaching experience at the graduate level. Priority will be given to applicants with a history of securing external research funding and with expertise, experience, or interest in scholarship on comparative and international higher-education issues.

Visit UGA's online hiring site at <https://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2629> (or search for posting #2017_00414F at <https://facultyjobs.uga.edu>) to view full details and to apply for this job.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Higher Education (Quantitative Methods)

The Institute of Higher Education at the University of Georgia seeks a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor of Higher Education with expertise in advanced quantitative research methods and in critical higher-education issues such as students' postsecondary opportunity and success, the analysis of governmental and institutional policies, and program evaluation and assessment. The candidate will be expected to teach in the Institute's academic programs, advise students, and conduct independent research. At a minimum applicants must have completed a doctorate in higher education or a related social-science field. Appointment at the associate level requires prior or current faculty status in a tenured or tenure-track line position and ability to meet the criteria for appointment at the associate level set by the University of Georgia. Appointment at the assistant or associate level will be guided by the candidate's prior experience and scholarly qualifications and determined by UGA's criteria for faculty appointment, promotion and tenure. Our preference is for candidates with in-depth preparation in quantitative research methodologies; an established program of scholarly research on postsecondary education; and a minimum of three years of successful teaching experience at the graduate level. Priority will be given to applicants with a history of securing external research funding.

Visit UGA's online hiring site at <https://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2634> (or search for posting #2017_00415F at <https://facultyjobs.uga.edu>) to view full details and to apply for this job.

Applications and Nominations

Institute of Higher Education
Meigs Hall
University of Georgia
Athens, GA 30602
706.542.3464
ihe.uga.edu
Facebook
Twitter

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the positions are filled. To apply, please submit a letter of interest tailored to the specific position for which you are applying, a curriculum vitae, and the names of three references (see links above for each position). A link to UGA's criteria for appointment can be found at: http://provost.uga.edu/documents/UGA_Guidelines_for_APT_4_2017_online.pdf

Founded in 1964, the Institute of Higher Education is committed to advancing postsecondary education policy, management, and leadership through multidisciplinary research, graduate education, and outreach. The Institute and its faculty collaborate with leading programs, associations, agencies, and institutions in the U.S. and abroad to further understanding of postsecondary education and contribute to its improvement.

The Institute offers the Ph.D., Executive Ed.D., and M.Ed. degrees. For further information please contact the Institute of Higher Education at ihe@uga.edu.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Institute of
Higher Education
UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA