

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

Louise McBee Institute of Higher Education

The Louise McBee Institute of Higher Education at the University of Georgia, pursuant to its mission and values (ihe.uga.edu/mission), invites applications from senior scholars to fill the Louise McBee Distinguished Professorship in Higher Education with service to begin in fall 2023.

The professorship honors Dr. Louise McBee, who held leadership positions at the University of Georgia before serving for over a decade as a champion for higher education in the Georgia legislature.

We seek a scholar of national and international prominence who will advance the multi-disciplinary character of the McBee Institute, add substantially to the depth and breadth of our faculty, and develop improved understanding of higher education.

Candidates should hold a doctorate in sociology, political science, higher education, public policy, economics, management or a related field, and they should bring a distinguished record in instruction, scholarly research, and extramural funding focused on the study of higher education.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate-level courses, advise and mentor doctoral students, pursue an active program of research, and apply research-based knowledge to improving practice and policy in higher education.

Review of applications will begin October 19, 2022 and continue until the position is filled; candidates who apply by November 4 will receive full consideration.

To apply, please submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, and the names of three references via UGA's online hiring site at: ugajobsearch.com/postings/283130. General inquiries may be directed to the McBee Professor search committee at ihe@uga.edu.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu).